50th Wedding Anniversary

Being the oldest child in the family has its pros and cons. On the pro side, there are more photographs of me as a baby and toddler than my brother and sister combined.

On the con side, I was the practice baby. Mom and Dad made all their parenting mistakes on me, and were also the strictest with me. They got progressively more lenient with my sister and by the time my brother was born it was, "hey Kid, here's fifty bucks, go play."

But I'm not bitter because definitely one of the pros tonight of being the eldest is the opportunity to give a toast in celebration of my parents' 50th wedding anniversary. And I am so glad that the people my parents hold close to their heart are able to join us tonight in this celebration. Some of you have come from quite a ways to be here this evening, and I would like to say thank you for your travels. I'd also like to welcome the newest member of our family tonight, and say Steve, I'm so glad that you have found us all, so welcome to you also.

I know I speak for my brother and sister when I say that the older we get, the more we realize how lucky we are to be part of this family, and what a privilege it has been to have parents like mom and dad. I am 48 years old and never, in my entire life, have I heard my parents say an unkind word to each other or about each other. That is remarkable. Their love for each other has always been there, an unshakeable foundation we built our family upon. And I'll tell you, we needed that foundation sometimes, because our family has been through quite a lot of interesting times living overseas, including monsoons, earthquakes, hurricanes, locusts, sandstorms, floods, a war, bomb threats, an evacuation, and blackouts when bomber planes were flying over us. I also know that we'll all live to a very old age because we've been inoculated for just about every disease known to man.

But don't think that it was all trial and tribulation. Far from it! I happened to mention my background to someone a few years ago, and how I moved every two years to a different country. "Oh that must have been so horrible for you," he said. "Well," I replied. "For my 9th birthday, my dad rented an elephant and then took my sister and I to visit the Taj Mahal. What did you do for your 9th birthday?"

Our success hasn't gone unnoticed. The IBO has commended GAIS for its meticulous implementation of its program standards. During the process of implementing the MYP, we decided to establish a multiple language track, which would enable our student's with greater flexibility and choices as well as attract prospective students. I think it's safe to say we made the right decision. When we started the Middle School we had 18 students, including one eighth grade student, a retention rate of 60% and generating $200K in revenue. By comparison, today we have over 80 students in the MYP, including 17 eighth grade students, a retention rate of more than 85% and generating revenue of $1.3MM. It's just amazing!

However, a true measure of our students is to see at how are they thriving in different settings after graduating from GAIS. Over the last three years not only have 90% of our graduating students been accepted by their 1st choice of private high schools, but many have received scholarships for academic excellence. In addition, the majority of our students have been placed in Honors and advanced Math classes and have gone on to outperform their peers in premier High Schools around the Peninsula.

Like a proud parent, I would like to highlight some of our alumni who have been rewarded for their achievements. Recently, Juliana Kessler, freshman at Notre Dame, was awarded the department award for English Honors and the Achievement award for Sculpture. Eden Grown-Haeberli, a freshman also at Notre Dame, won the Department award for Algebra II Honors. Note: Eden started in PS and Juliana started in first grade and probably Heike who has been here for 20 years still remembers them as they were little. I'm really proud of our alumni and I congratulate them for their great achievements.

I think some things have been spilled over mom, without excuses and without help to clean up the casino. First, let me give an example with dad. Also, your tendency to run risks is revealed by the fact that when you met mom for the first time, she was coming out with your roommate. I will never forget the beginning of the bakery years, when we had that addipasto sourdough and almost took control of the house. I also remember that at high school the times were tight and many of my friends had to find work in fast food. At that time, the mother didn't wear a heating costume and sneakers to do the shopping, but it seemed that she was dressed for a tea to the ladies, the perfect modern beauty of the south in her white winter costume, shoes and bag. I also feel grateful that you have always liked to have fun, and she sent me this love. I seem to remember that he too trampled me first, while he tried to find me, so I had a great bruise on him thigh, but I was immensely grateful for him action of him despite everything. Dad rushed to my rescue, pulling myself out of the water, saving my life. On this very special occasion of your 50th wedding anniversary, with a heart of deep gratitude, I give you my honor, appreciation, admiration and love. You gave a pocket in Rob and to me, despite the money they were scarce. To tell the truth, we always had shopping hunger, but this time we decided to have lunch in a small elegant bar with white tablecloths and a well-dressed waiter. You have been blessed by the strength and faith to stay together, despite a multitude of forces that aim to separate a couple. He simply made him without flames, hard words and spite. While I fought with shyness for a number of years, I never fought with security. I wish I could take some red of Georgia to mix with our soil.) Not only is mom Ã¨ a great cook, but papÃ , she also makes great Campbell soup and grilled cheese sandwiches. May God continue to bless your marriage, and Enjoy your party on April 16th and during the gold. When I entered it was just aspirated and filled with gas. And then perhaps one of our lunches reached 20 minutes after the other, and did not prepare him as requested, so most could not be eaten. I don't remember the details, but I remember that we were in a hurry, we were both more irritated, and I was ready to go to complain with the manager so that he knew what was happening. On this day of caller ID may not be a big problem, but played so even years before the caller ID, even when I was a telemarketer that I tried to sell a new vinyl coating at dinner time. This has been said during years very difficult from the financial point of view, and has demonstrated your love and your trust to me, and your availability to sacrifice. Although most children appreciate parents for giving them organic life, I don't know who I have to do. Mom and dad, your honesty, integrity, love, patience, kindness, commitment and availability to forgive shine as a strong inspiration for me to fight it for the same in my marriage. It is so beautiful when beautiful things are handed down without even trying. I hope my children will have a happy and healthy childhood. I felt a princess to my seventh birthday when you organized me that party in the dining room with purple goblets, refined porcelain with painted purple and golden decorations, and a homemade cake with purple glaze and flowers above. (Mom, have you ever talked about it? You are always the perfect hosts, not because everything you served is perfect or home is perfect (even if mom as close as anyone I know), but because your guests feel loved and welcome. Make anyone calling you feel great. While the papÃ struggled with smoking for many years (boy Ã was impressed when he stopped cold turkey), mom emphasized nutrition, exercise, and I remember you both attended many events in black shirts and white shirts when we lived in Iceland, and once you held a luxury event at our house, where you allowed me to serve caviar and colorful drinks to the guests. I remember, in particular, you said I could go to school anywhere I wanted, even an expensive private school, and you'd find a way to help me afford to go. I've always felt loved, and very special. I will never forget that mom taught me (on the rock slide in the Big Canoe) to be very careful where I put my feet because it was really slippery if I stepped on the shiny side. From your love of the ocean, and from the fact that we always live close to the coast -- Boston, Monterey, Key West, Keflavik, and finally Atlanta (well... we went to the beautiful mountain lakes) -- I'm also drawn to the coast. I love you, Rosalind. I admire how you both possess tremendous gifts of emotional intelligence, including empathy, compassion, love and grace. I never felt the need to rebel against you. Parents teach their children whether they try or not. While teaching children and babysatters and doing some chores that paid off, I wondered if I should consider getting a job with substantial hours. You even made me my favorite purple dresses. You always made me feel loved and supported to do what I wanted. Dad, also make a delicious homemade soup, fantastic boiled peanuts and cheese straws, and homemade dill bread, wine and cheese. This was a generous gesture and allowed me to enjoy exploring many things that most children never get to try, such as skydiving (!). These are not empty words. What a kind gift you give to our world. I never knew a golf cart could go so quickly! I remember how excited when I was 16, and you helped me choose my mine Auto, that bright yellow V6 Mercury Capri, which had been carefully cared for by its previous owner. Unlike some of my friends' parents who told them what to do and never allow to answer, you always listened to what I had to say. I remember how nice it was after we finished our negotiations and papÃ and i went to get the car, and i saw the previous owner had washed it and waxed it so brilliantly brilliant. I know because once when Mom was in the hospital for over a week, we ate this every day. It kept multiplying, and we had to do new things with it every week. You are always willing to help and to reach someone who is lonely, troubled, or could use a sandwich. What I remember clearly was how he shaped what I later learned was called "emotional intelligence." I won't say² that there was no curse, and maybe Ã¨ that's why I came across sewing simple sunbeds, but I got the most important message that I didn't have to know how to do something before trying to do it. You'll never forget² when I first notice, when you call home from Boston, "Gee, papÃ it's really starting to get a southern accent in the last year. he didn't have that strong when we lived in Atlanta." But a cozy accent to the south slightly captures the wealth of ciÃ² that papÃ communicates through his voice. And that really caught his attention. I think a 50th anniversary of marriage is a kind of miracle that deserves a very special tribute. My parents taught me by doing: They were not afraid to face huge projects and learn things through the attempt. And make the best sandwiches that any of us have ever had (even if I miss those amazing tomatoes that papÃ they grow. While papÃ encouraged me to The grease under my fingernails, my mom encouraged me to conduct a proper manicure, painting my fingernails to hide those last pieces of grease that were hard to wash off. I love seafood and I'm sure this is partly due to how both of them seafood and how much of it we ate. I had so much fun. While I don't remember you ever throwing anything at each other, and I suspect you did your best to hide problems from us, there were times when I really worried that you might give up on each other. I think you quietly explained how to blow the battery if he kept standing there with his mouth open and his eyes wide open. They welcomed them into our home, saying "This is our home", and then "please come here and meet our little brother." Then they walked with the guests politely to Luc and made presentations, "Luc, this is Scott and this is Patrick; Scott and Patrick, this is our little brother Luc, who is 2." I never remember teaching them this, but if they learned it from Len and I it's because we learned it from our wonderful parents. I once heard someone say they'd never heard their parents fight. Mom, I'm grateful to be assured that I can plan and cook nutritious meals; You made it clear to me that ketchup wasn't a vegetable, even though schools in Georgia said it was. When he answers the phone, he's in stark contrast to most of the world. It wasn't something like forgetting to bring tea, or just keeping two women low-blooded sugar waiting 30 minutes without bringing the menu, but it's probably how it started. This kind of lesson is a real deep one, and probably represents a big part of my willingness to tackle great things. On this very special occasion of the 50th anniversary, I would like to share a few ways in which I have greatly enjoyed both, and especially your stay married for half a century. I never understood until writing this that I adopted so many of your interests, although I prefer to convey golf, soccer, finishing antiques and tomato aspic. Here's an example with mom.
